Haskett vacates guilty plea

BY DAN SINGLETON
MVG Staff

A 20-year-old man charged in a high-profile animal abuse case in Didsbury was restrained by an RCMP officer during a scuffle with a protester outside the Didsbury provincial court on Friday.

Daniel Charles Haskett was in court for sentencing after pleading guilty to charges of animal cruelty and obstruction of justice relating to injuries caused to a Lab-collie cross named Daisy Duke in Oct. 2006.

As Haskett left the courthouse in the company of his mother, self-described animal rights activist Drew Marceton shouted disparaging remarks about Haskett's mother at the accused.

Haskett then turned and charged towards Marceton, his hand in a fist, before being restrained by Didsbury RCMP Const. Lee Hammond.

As Haskett then tried to get into a waiting vehicle, Marceton continued to hurl abuse at him and then at police.

"Why are you protecting him?" Marceton said to police.

Const. Hammond then told Marceton to move away or he would be arrested for obstruction.

(Marceton was convicted of obstruction and mischief and fined $200 for blocking a van carrying Haskett away from the courthouse following his first appearance in Oct. 2006).

Haskett and a 17-year-old male youth were charged after Daisy Duke was found severely injured on a Didsbury street on Oct. 7, 2006. The animal had to be put down due to the severity of its injuries.

Haskett pleaded guilty to two charges in the case in May 2007, signing an agreed statement of facts at the same time.

In the statement of facts, Haskett agreed that he and the young offender attempted to kill the dog by asphyxiation after the animal was accidentally run over with the youth's vehicle.

Haskett was expected to be sentenced on Friday before Judge Ian Kirkpatrick. However, when court opened, Haskett's lawyer, Alan Pearce, made an application to have the guilty pleas vacated because Haskett disputes some of the facts in the statement.

Haskett then took the stand and testified that he signed the statement of facts in hope of bringing the case to a speedy end.

"I entered a guilty plea because I wanted to get on with my life," said Haskett. "There has been a continuing amount of harassment, including death threats and hate mail. I've been assaulted. I was trapped in this town. I couldn't go outside my home."

He said some unknown person also shot at his house.

"I didn't want to deal with that anymore," he said. "I believed the guilty plea would stop the harassment."

Haskett testified that he denies a number of specific sections of the statement of facts.

"I do not agree with everything the agreed statement of facts says is true. I know it is not legal to inflict unnecessary injury or pain on an animal. That was not my intent. There are parts of the statement of facts that I would say are not true," he said.

One section of the statement reads: "Daisy was alive, so (young offender) picked up a shovel and struck Daisy once over the head with the scoop end of the shovel."

Haskett says that did not happen.

"I didn't participate in anything of that nature," he said.

One section reads: "Neither (Haskett or youth) felt to see if she still had a pulse, or if she was breathing."

Haskett said that wasn't true.

"I did check to see if Daisy did have a pulse and was breathing," he said.

One section reads that Haskett encouraged the youth to drag the dog from the property using a tow rope wrapped around her neck.

"That is entirely inaccurate," he said. "I would never encourage anyone to do that. It's grotesque."

Haskett also denied a section that said he encouraged the youth to lie to police about the killing.

During cross-examination by prosecutor Gordon Haight, Haskett admitted that he read the entire statement of facts before signing it.

"It never occurred to me to ask him (Haskett's previous lawyer) to have things taken off the agreed statement of facts," Haskett said. "I thought it was black and white. I never thought to ask my lawyer that. It wasn't really on my mind when I signed that."

"I believe I made a really big mistake in agreeing to the statement of facts."

In closing arguments on the application to vacate the pleas, prosecutor Haight called on the judge to uphold the guilty pleas and sentence Haskett accordingly.

"The accused ought not to be believed," said Haight. "This wasn't a quick and dirty reading of the facts. There was an agreed statement of facts."

Haight said allowing the pleas to be vacated would be prejudicial to the Crown's case because of the lengthy time since the dog's death.

Defence lawyer Pearce said the accused pleaded guilty to the charges to end community harassment, and the pleas should therefore be quashed.

Judge Kirkpatrick adjourned the case until Oct. 21 when he will make a ruling on the application to vacate the pleas. If he finds the pleas should not be vacated, he will then pass sentence.

Outside court Haight told reporters he will be seeking a period of incarceration for Haskett. The charge carries a maximum penalty of six months in jail and a $2,000 fine.

"I will be asking for substantial jail time," said Haight.

He called the latest delay "frustrating."

About a dozen animal rights activists were at the court, holding placards calling for penalties for animal cruelty to be increased.

Didsbury resident Tamara Chaney, who collected more than 100,000 signatures on a petition calling for tougher animal cruelty laws that eventually went before Parliament, was one of the protesters.

"This latest delay is disappointing, but I'm not surprised," said Chaney.

Heather Anderson, a Calgary animal rights activist who formed a group called 'Delegates Against Inhumane Suffering Y?' (DAISY), has attended every court appearance Haskett has made in the case.

"It's disgusting," Anderson said about the delay until October. "I didn't think he could come up with any other delays. We'll be back in October."

Record scholarship count for DHS

BY JOSH SKAPIN
Didsbury Review

Didsbury High School distributed a record number of scholarships during its 2008 graduation ceremony last Thursday.

Taking home almost double what was handed out last year, 21 students were awarded scholarships totalling $24,000.

DHS principal Garth Dagg, who accepted the temporary leadership position last summer, summed up the class of 2008 with two words, "fun loving."

"As a teacher I've always found graduation to be a reflective time. Grads should have a great feeling of satisfaction, having just completed the longest project of your life," he said.

"The message I want to leave with you is whether you chose to go to post-secondary school, receive trade certification, travel the world, or immediately start working, there are a couple of things that I ask to help make your life more fulfilling.

"The first thing I ask is that you make a commitment to serve. By this I mean, to truly serve your family, your friends, and your community."

Superintendent for Chinook's Edge School Division, Jim Gibbons said high school graduation is like book marking an important chapter in your life.

"We live in a wonderful economy. You're graduating at the most important time ever. You can do anything, there are so many jobs out there...Don't measure your success in dollars and cents, measure it in smiles, laughter, and good friends."

Chinook's Edge school board Didsbury trustee and former DHS principal Ian Taylor spoke of fond memories from the old high school facility, torn down earlier this year.

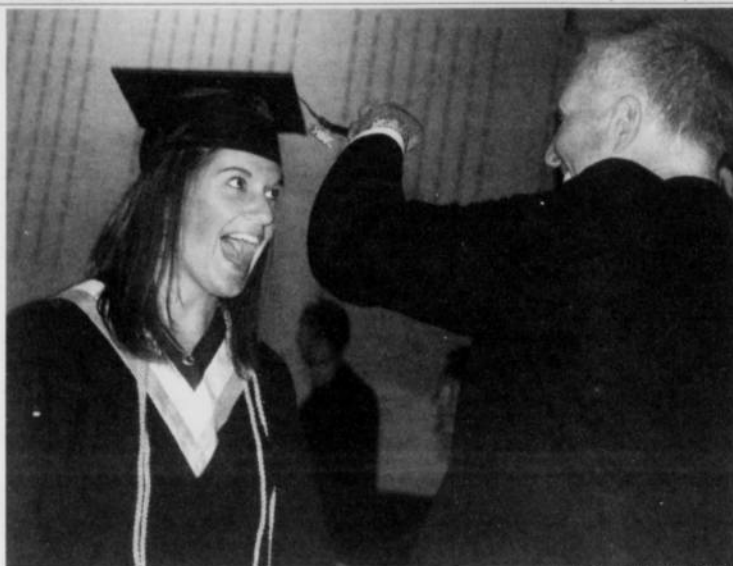

"The school is the people in it. The school is the community," he said, adding a message for the graduates.

"Learning is something you take with you. It's something that follows its owner with you. Nothing can take that away from you."

"...be bold, step forward, and do what you believe you're led to do.

Valedictorian and multiple award winner Kitrina Penwarden also spoke at the ceremony.

Scholarship recipients included: Martine

What you need to know about West Nile virus

"I ended up being sick for three weeks, and the most frightening part was not knowing if it would keep getting worse."

— Coreen, Bow Island, AB
West Nile fever survivor

West Nile virus remains a health concern for all Albertans. Those over the age of 50 are at greater risk of becoming seriously ill when infected with West Nile virus.

- Your best protection is insect repellent with DEET. Used as directed, DEET has an excellent safety record.
- Products with lemon eucalyptus oil are effective for shorter periods of time.
- Wear long-sleeved shirts and pants at dusk and dawn when mosquitoes are most active.

Divided opposition helps Tories

BY DAN SINGLETON
Didsbury Review

Only a few months after jointly suffering a major defeat in the 2008 provincial election, Alberta's opposition parties have received another blow with the NDP's decision to go it alone against the mighty Stelmach Tories.

During their recent annual meeting, NDP members voted overwhelmingly to reject a resolution that called for cooperation with the other opposition parties.

In the end, more than 95 per cent of members voted against any alliance with the Taft Liberals or the Green Party.

"The membership sent us a clear message today: the NDP will continue to stand for social justice and equality. We shall not sacrifice those values for a misguided sense of political unity," said leader NDP Brian Mason.

"Today we have strengthened our commitment to grow as a movement. We are determined to continue fighting for the rights of working Albertans."

With only two seats in the legislature, down from four before the election, the NDP's decision to cast off any chance of a united opposition is certainly puzzling.

Premier Stelmach's recent decision to give himself and his cabinet colleagues massive pay raises, all without even a hint of public debate, shows very clearly that the ruling Tories have absolutely no fear of the NDP or the Liberals - or ordinary Albertans for that matter.

The Tories don't worry about the opposition parties and why should they? Premier Stelmach, like Ralph Klein and Don Getty before him, knows full well that no matter what he does or says over the next five years he will face a deeply divided opposition.

Many, many Albertans are outraged by the premier's arrogance in helping himself to even more taxpayers' dollars. Yet Premier Stelmach and his Tory colleagues can simply carry on knowing that the only parties that can do them any harm are weak and apparently staying that way.

The NDP has made a major mistake in throwing away a chance to work with the other opposition parties, particularly with the stronger and more popular Liberals.

Mr. Mason says his party will not sacrifice its "values for a misguided sense of political unity". Instead he appears willing to see his party remain in the political wilderness, relegated to virtual irrelevance when it comes to critical public issues such as that posed by the premier's recent pay hike.

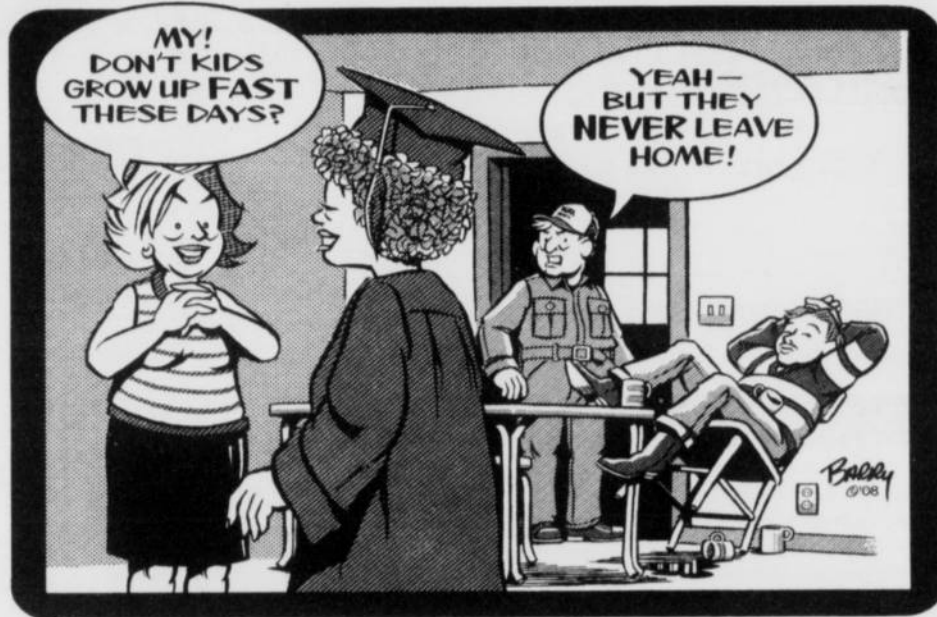

Giving Alberta voters a clear choice between 'Us or Them' would have strengthened all of Premier Stelmach's critics, both in the legislature and in the next provincial election.

Instead, the NDP seems content to see the provincial opposition remain divided and weak, giving the premier and his fellow well-paid cabinet ministers an ongoing free ride on the public gravy train.

"The membership sent us a clear message today: the NDP will continue to stand for social justice and equality. We shall not sacrifice those values for a misguided sense of political unity,"

BRIAN MASON.

Guest Commentary Thompson Challenges Dion's Green "Shaft" Plan

RED DEER EXPRESS
a Great West Newspaper

Myron Thompson, Member of Parliament for Wild Rose responded to Stéphane Dion's carbon tax proposal by saying the only green shift that would occur is the shifting of money out of your wallet and into Mr. Dion's coffers.

"We know that this tax trick will hit the price of diesel. Mr. Dion has promised to almost triple the tax on diesel. This will increase the cost of everything transported by truck or train, including essential items like food, clothing and gasoline," said Thompson.

"We know that the price of home heating fuel will go up. And seniors on fixed incomes have one more burden to meet every month. Is Stéphane Dion going to help them choose between filling their prescriptions and heating their homes?" questioned Thompson.

"We also know that it will hit electricity prices too. This means the cost of running a factory or other business will get a lot more expensive and thousands of Canadian manufacturing jobs will be put at risk," said Thompson.

"Mr. Dion also said his carbon tax won't hike the tax on gas. We know that every carbon tax imposed in Europe, as well as Quebec and BC, have hit gas prices too, as the cost of the carbon tax paid by manufacturers is passed onto consumers," stated Thompson.

"Mr. Dion claims the plan will be revenue neutral. What he actually means is that he plans to spend all the money it brings in on programs, special interests and Mr. Dion's unbudgeted spending promises," concluded Thompson.

Commentary Are your children being shortchanged?

GWEN RANDALL-YOUNG

Are computers and cell phones contributing to the "benign neglect" of our children? I remember when my children were little, and how hard it was for them to wait five or ten minutes until I got off the phone. However, when we were in the car, at the park, shopping or watching a sibling's sporting event, they had my full attention.

Things are different now. Often parents have their cell phones on all the time, so conversations with children are often interrupted while Mom or Dad takes a call. The calls may go on for a long time, or there may be many calls. Consequently, children are not getting the quality time with parents that they used to. Children get the message that whoever is calling is more important than they are.

Similarly, parents may spend a lot of time on the computer, either working, checking e-mails, surfing the web, or playing games. Children do this too, and the end result is a family that may be together, but within that seemingly togetherness, each is leading a more independent existence.

Bonding and interacting with family members are crucial elements to the healthy social and emotional development of children. There are also many opportunities for learning, as children are full of questions if they feel Mom or Dad is interested in what they have to say.

Take a moment to assess how technology is impacting your family life. Perhaps you will decide to turn off your cell phone when you are with the children, or save your computer time until they are in bed. Giving full attention to children sends them a strong message about their worth.

CHAMBER CHAT

The Voice of business

Did you see the full page ad in the Didsbury Review a couple of weeks ago? The one that listed all the partners in the Chamber of Commerce? Over 70 businesses in town are involved in the Chamber of Commerce - and they all proudly support the Local First philosophy. Chamber members include financial institutions and accountants, lawyers and real estate agents, electricians and construction workers, restaurants, retailers, and farmers. Its members include governments and service clubs, artists and consultants.

Make sure you cut out the ad and tape it to your bulletin board, fridge, or wall. Complete with business names and phone numbers, it's a handy reference to the businesses who help make our community thrive.

Mark your calendar for the following Chamber events:

Friday, August 15 - Pancake Breakfast

Wednesday, September 10 - First Chamber Get-together after the summer break

Saturday, October 18 - Small Business Gala

For more information on the Chamber of Commerce, call Tammy at the Chamber office, 335-3265 or send an e-mail to $20,000 for family violence prevention

BY JOSH SKAPIN
Didsbury Review

A local group's campaign for change just received a lot of help.

The Community Support Working Group received a $20,000 grant from the Prevention of Family Violence and Bullying Community Incentive fund, courtesy of the provincial government.

The group was born from a meeting that included nearly 100 people, including representatives of agencies, such as Didsbury FCSS and Carstairs FCSS in addition to others from across the region at the Zion Evangelical Church in Didsbury last January.

"Coming out of our meeting...we were able to establish that there was a need for this funding to provide programming and serving within our communities of Didsbury and Carstairs," said

Community Services coordinator Nicole Aasen.

Their intentions for the funding dollars include a series of speakers to visit Didsbury and Carstairs on presently undetermined dates in September.

Aasen says they will be targeting high profile speakers from Calgary and Edmonton in this endeavour.

"We want to make (our residents) aware of what's happening within our community and that it's everyone's problem."

Another area of the project listed in the application will be the inclusion of area businesses, and asking for their help by physically exhibiting signs or otherwise showing their support in the fight against family violence.

"We're really excited about being chosen for the funding. It's a pretty prestigious grant. And the funding is hard to get. To have rural communities' projects recognized is wonderful and we're really looking forward to bringing this to our residents."

A formal cheque presentation by MLA Richard Marz is expected in the near future.

Perfect light for Wannamaker

The Wannamaker name may be synonymous with a different type of racing, but that didn't stop Chelsea, 21, from accomplishing the incredible, Father's Day weekend.

Chelsea, the daughter of nationally acclaimed Didsbury dog racing duo, Rick and Dena Wannamaker took a shine to auto racing a few years ago.

That interest grew into her making her competitive debut at the Father's Day Funny Car Classic at Race City in Calgary, and dropping jaws along the way.

In a field that included 40 vehicles and only one other female driver, Chelsea was the runner-up in the No ET box drag racing category.

"It was awesome because it was my first real race," she said.

"I was just trying to get everything figured out and we didn't expect to do that well."

Chelsea took to the track in her father's slick, red 1968 Camaro.

When her dad, a mechanic by profession works on the car, Chelsea likes to take part.

"I try. I try and stand there and learn. But I don't know much about the cars. He's the mechanic."

"I couldn't have done as well as I did in my first race if it wasn't for my dad."

Another feat that she thanks her dad's advice for helping her accomplish was capturing a perfect light.

As Chelsea describes it, a perfect light occurs when a driver's reaction time is .000.

"You leave exactly when the light is green," she said. "I had horrible lights all morning because I was nervous. But then my dad told me 'you have to leave on the second yellow,' and it worked."

Will Chelsea's early success on the track mean she'll be hungry for more?

Well, according to her, having her dad's vehicle sure helps.

"As long as he let's me take it, I'll be back."

You're Invited We're listening

The Alberta Electric System Operator (AESO) is meeting with members of the community to provide information and to hear your feedback on the need for reinforcement of the transmission system between the Edmonton and Calgary regions. Construction of a new transmission line between the regions is being considered within the grey study area of the map. A second reinforcement is forecast to be needed in the next few years. After receiving community input, AESO will make decisions on need and preferred routing and file a Needs Identification Document with the Alberta Utilities Commission.

Information will be available on options being considered for reinforcement.

Two transmission facility owners, AltaLink and ATCO Electric, will also be in attendance to answer your questions.

Please join us at any of the information sessions listed below between 4:00 PM and 8:00 PM. At each open house various representatives will be available to show you the alternatives and to listen to your opinions and advice.

In Loving Memory of Marge Klemke

It is with much sadness that we say goodbye to our dear friend, who passed away June 22, 2008 at the age of 74. We will miss her hearty laugh and mischievous giggle. We will also miss the many ways she showed us she cared. Phone calls to give us weather reports, hockey schedules, or to check on the latest Doctor's reports. We will miss her birthday cards and cakes and baking for special occasions or just for no reason at all. Marge's favourite things were baking, canning, John Wayne, Edmonton Oilers, Toronto Bluejays, feeding "her" birds in the winter and planting flowers in the spring. We will truly miss her and we are thankful for the opportunity to know her.

YOUNGS

Ruth Youngs (née Lucas), of Didsbury passed away peacefully on June 24, 2008. Ruth was born in Lithuania on September 24, 1925 and came with her mother and younger brother Albert to the James River area to join her father, who had emigrated earlier from Lithuania. In 1962, Ruth married Bob Youngs and together they farmed west of Didsbury until 1997, when they moved to the Town of Didsbury. Ruth is survived by husband, Robert (Bob); brother Albert (Dorothy) of Caroline and brother Leonard of Montreal. She is also survived by several nieces and nephews. In lieu of flowers, donations in memory of Ruth may be made to the Canadian Cancer Society, 2nd fl., 215 - 12 Ave. SE, Calgary AB T2G 1A2.
